PAH Publishing, in Monett, MO bill them selves as the decoding book specialist . And rightly so as their publications focus in on a much need area for classic car enthusiasts...that need is books that provide data to waiting car lovers around the world. With their books you are able to know what all the numbers mean on your car. As their publisher Paul Herd is quoted in saying "we don't publish pretty picture books.", Herd is a well known author of automotive guides, "our books are for guys [and girls] who like to get their hands dirty."

This publishing companies latest edition is just for that buyer. Pontiac Muscle Car Engine Drive Train and Suspension is a 171 page guide that has become part a new series entitled "Salvage Yard Buyers Guide". This book written by Pontiac devotee John R. Miller, is loaded with tips and photos to guide you in selecting used parts, it also a handy interchangeable parts guide for all 1964-72 Firebird, Tempest, Grand Prix and 2+2 models. This is "but only one of a series" quoted the publisher, "we have three more in the planning stages." Coming early next year is at the body and glass volumes one on 1967-75 Firebirds and the other on the all time Pontiac favorite 1964-72 GTO and Tempest models. One way or the other PAH Publishing is determined to your decoding book specialist.
