

Meridian Honda ready for customers to examine the 2020 Passport and CR-V

Both Honda crossover SUVs offer more power and more cargo volume than each respective top competitor.

MERIDIAN, Miss. (PRWEB) February 28, 2020 -- Honda crossover SUVs have a lot to offer customers perusing the new vehicle inventory at the Meridian Honda showroom. Two models, in particular, the 2020 Honda Passport and 2020 Honda CR-V really bring a lot to the table when compared to their top in-class rivals. Broadly speaking, the 2020 Passport and the 2020 CR-V can demonstrate several important advantages over those competing vehicles, including overall performance and cargo volume. In addition to what either vehicle can do physically, the 2020 versions of the Passport and CR-V are also excellent examples of the technology that the automaker makes available. Customers can take a closer look at both of these Honda crossover SUVs at Meridian Honda today.

The 2020 Honda Passport is available in four trim grades, Sport, EX-L, Touring and Elite, each of them is powered by a 3.5-liter, V-6 engine that will make 280 horsepower and 262 pound-feet of torque. Customers who take the competition's vehicle home will only have a four-cylinder engine to work with that makes fewer than 205 horsepower. Additionally, the 2020 Passport offers more maximum cargo volume, across its entire trim ladder, than its rival can offer to its owner.

Customers might also be in the market for a smaller Honda crossover SUV which is where the 2020 Honda CR-V comes into play. When the current CR-V is compared to its top rival, it also offers a significant advantage in maximum cargo volume across its lineup of four trim grades, LX, EX, EX-L and Touring. When the interior of the 2020 CR-V is properly configured, it can provide up to 75.8 cubic-feet of cargo volume. This is significantly more than what its rival can offer, which can top out at 59.6 cubic-fit.

Honda has made its smartphone-compatible infotainment system available on most 2020 CR-V and 2020 Passport models. Customers who choose the 2020 Honda CR-V will need to pick the EX trims and higher or the EX-L models and up for the 2020 Passport to get access to the Apple CarPlay® and Android Auto™ suites of applications.
