NEW YORK (PRWEB) April 22, 2021 -- Dan Lee, who grew up in North Central Massachusetts, has completed his new book “Highway Disciple”: a gripping and potent tale that introduces Lenny Richardson, a motorcycle club member and outlaw who has reached his breaking point following the tragic death of his wife.

Author Dan Lee writes, “A warm gust of wind blew in from the Arizona desert, forcing the moon and stars to play a game of peek-a-boo through the low torn blanket of clouds moving across the night sky. The inconsistent sounds of passing motorists echoed from the far end of the alley, bouncing off the exterior walls of the crowding buildings all the way up to the front of the alley as the crinkle of newspapers and clanking of empty aluminum beer cans traveled between the old buildings made of brick and deteriorating stucco, covered with gang-style graffiti, probably to mark the territory of the rival gangs in a battle to claim the alley as their own turf.”

Published by Page Publishing, Dan Lee’s mesmerizing tale follows Lenny as he meets a traveling minister at a roadside church in the desert who helps him learn to use his motorcycle as a tool to spread his faith to the rest of the world.
