

Biker Pros Lands Pro-One As the Newest Member of the Roadmax Family of Distributors

PRO-ONE, an American builder and supplier of custom billet products and rolling chassis has picked up the Roadmax transmission line from Biker Pros.

Southlake, TX (PRWEB) February 7, 2005 -- PRO-ONE, an American builder and supplier of custom billet wheels, TP Engines, rolling chassis, gauges, handle bars, forward controls and fenders, has pulled the trigger on the Roadmax transmission line from Biker Pros.

“PRO-ONE is such an innovative manufacturer of parts and accessories for the American v-twin marketplace,” stated Bob Kay, President, Biker Pros. “Their products stand alone on the leading edge of creativity. We are excited to be working with a creative team of this caliber and capability.”

“There are two reasons that we decided to pick up the Roadmax transmission line,” explained Joseph Lee, VP, PRO-ONE. “First, the Roadmax transmissions come with an unbeatable 3 year warranty, and they are reasonably priced. Our customers are truly getting value for their money.

Second, we’ve known Bob Kay for many years and he has quickly put the infrastructure in place to support a top-line product - like a warranty repair station and a parts replacement program. The combination of the Roadmax transmission line and Biker Pros service makes this product viable for us.”

The Roadmax transmission line will be distributed through PRO-ONE and offered separately and as an option for bikers to complete their rolling chassis buildup.

Roadmax transmissions are designed for OEM replacement and kit bikes, as well as high-performance and wide-tire applications. Roadmax transmissions are thoroughly tested and have passed a rigorous pre-delivery inspection.

The Roadmax product line includes six speed conversion kits and OEM style replacement transmissions for Dyna, FXR and Softail models as well as transmissions for right side applications. On most models consumers have the option of selecting black wrinkle, polished, or chrome casings.

Biker Pros is serving the American motorcycle builder with a range of high-value products and services that assist builders in improving motorcycle performance by providing high quality parts, troubleshooting Powersports operations, and building and marketing exclusive products by builders for the American v-twin marketplace.
