Learning how to successfully build a custom killer motorcycle on your own without the grief, frustration and money sucking problems that most people have to go through is now a reality.

Las Vegas, NV (PRWEB) March 9, 2005 -- Learning how to successfully build a custom killer motorcycle on your own without the grief, frustration and money sucking problems that most people have to go through is now a reality. Kami Corporation (<http://www.custombikebuildingsecrets.com>) announced today the release of a 5 volume instructional DVD program that reveals the same proven techniques and strategies the show winning professional motorcycle builders use so that you can easily build your own custom motorcycle!

“If you’re thinking about building your own custom motorcycle or assembling a bike-in-a-box kit, it’s not a decision to be taken lightly”, advised Kami Corporation CEO Mike Matthews. “You’ve probably heard all the horror stories from countless people who have jumped into a motorcycle building project only to find themselves over their head in a very short period of time.”

Mathews adds, “Even with the plethora of bike-in-a-box kits and rolling chassis packages that promise to provide every nut, bolt and washer, most people end up confused and frustrated because they don’t know or are not aware of the most important, yet little known, tricks to successful completion of your motorcycle building project.”

The series of 5 DVD videos available at <http://custombikebuildingsecrets.com>, provide up close, realistic views of the complete motorcycle building process from the early mock-up stage all the way through to start up and riding down the road. Users of this DVD package have reported saving thousands of dollars on their custom motorcycle build project by using the proven tips and techniques in the video course.
