Motorcycle Racing Legend Ray Price Posthumously Inducted into N.C. Sports Hall of Fame

Ray Price's life full of record-setting runs, innovation and philanthropy recognized alongside North Carolina sports greats Rod Brind'Amour, Eric "Sleepy" Floyd, David Fox, James Fulghum, Antawn Jamison, Haywood Jeffries, Freddy Johnson and Susan Yow.

Raleigh, N.C. (PRWEB) May 10, 2016 -- Ray Price’s life began on a Johnston County tobacco farm and included a stint in the Air Force before winning 46 motorcycle drag races, three national championships, and setting 51 speed records. Price was well-known in the drag racing community for his innovations to boost power and improve safety. He also helped raise thousands of dollars for local charities over three decades in business with his successful Harley-Davidson dealership. With this amazing resume, it’s easy to understand why Ray Price was inducted into the N.C. Sports Hall of Fame in a ceremony at the Raleigh Convention Center on May 6, 2016.

“Ray Price exemplifies the meaning of the word legend,” said Don Fish, executive director of the N.C. Sports Hall of Fame. “His life was dedicated to serving his community, the sport of drag racing, and his family. We are honored to welcome him into the N.C. Sports Hall of Fame and to share his amazing story with those who may not have had the pleasure of knowing this great, but humble man.”

Price was best known in racing circles for his success as a drag racer and as “Father of the Funnybike,” having designed the first wheelie bar for motorcycle drag racing. He was also instrumental in creating the current style of two-speed racing transmission and helped to fuel the popularity of motorcycle drag racing with the International Hot Rod Association (IHRA) and National Hot Rod Association (NHRA). He is an inducted member of five drag racing and motorcycle halls of fame.

Price was also an active philanthropist, helping to raise money for organizations that support veterans, cancer research and orphaned children by hosting events at his motorcycle dealership of three decades. Over the past 11 years, the annual Ray Price Capital City Bikefest has attracted more than 100,000 motorcycle enthusiasts into downtown Raleigh each fall.

Up until his death in December 2015, Price was actively involved with Ray Price Motorsports Racing, the two-time defending champions in the NHRA Harley-Davidson Top Fuel Drag Racing Series for 2014 and 2015.

“We're honored to see Ray recognized for his impact on the sports community in the State of North Carolina, joining the other outstanding athletes and community heroes,” said Mark Hendrix, general manager of Ray Price, Inc. “Ray Price was a motorsports icon with a huge heart, who always had time for friends and fans. His passion for sharing his love of motorcycling converged every day with his dedication to serving our community.”

Artifacts of many of the N.C. Sports Hall of Fame members are showcased in a 3,000-square foot museum on the third floor of the N.C. Museum of History in Raleigh. Admission is free. According to Fish, one of Price's drag racing motorcycles will be archived at the museum.

About Ray Price Harley-Davidson/Triumph
For more than 30 years, Ray Price Harley-Davidson and Ray Price Triumph have made Raleigh, N.C. a top motorcycle destination. The knowledgeable staff has decades of riding experience to provide award-winning customer service and education programs for beginners-to-expert riders. Founded by hall-of-fame motorcycle racing legend Ray Price, the dealership actively supports nonprofits and is host to the state’s largest downtown motorcycle rally, Ray Price Capital City Bikefest. Last year, the N.C. Retail Merchants Association named the dealership its “Retailer of the Year.”

About the North Carolina Sports Hall of Fame

The North Carolina Sports Hall of Fame, which inducted its first class in 1963, celebrates excellence and extraordinary achievement in athletics. The Hall of Fame also commemorates and memorializes exceptional accomplishments in sports for the inspiration and enjoyment of all North Carolinians, especially the youth, through popular exhibits and educational displays. N.C. Sports Hall of Fame contact: Don Fish, (919) 845-3455, dfish(at)ncsportshalloffame.org
Contact Information
Scott Misner
Ray Price Harley-Davidson
http://www.rayprice-hd.com
+1 (919) 235-0940

Kris Weiss
Ray Price Harley-Davidson
http://www.rayprice-hd.com
(919) 832-2261

Online Web 2.0 Version
You can read the online version of this press release here.