

The Patrick Dealer Group, one of Chicagoland's Most Notable Family Owned Automotive Groups, Gives Back through Education in the Community

Education is a gift that transforms lives, and this year during the 2016 Loyola Academy Ramble Auction, over 30 percent of the $3.8 million awarded to students annually will be achieved in one night. The Patrick Dealer Group will be donating a two-year lease of a Patrick BMW 320i as its contribution to tuition assistance for students.

Schaumburg, IL (PRWEB) April 22, 2016 -- The Patrick Dealer Group is committed to the community it serves and since 1971, the Patrick family of dealerships has been a stalwart in the Chicago automotive landscape.

“As a partner with numerous charitable endeavors, being in a position to contribute to our community and its families is something we really enjoy, says Hanley Dawson IV, Patrick Dealer Group’s President.

On May 7th, one such endeavor is the contribution of a two-year lease on a Patrick BMW 320i to Loyola Academy in Wilmette, Illinois.

The Loyola Academy Ramble Auction, is an evening of silent and live auctions, dinner and dancing on May 7, 2016. One hundred percent of the proceeds raised at the Ramble is allocated to tuition assistance,” says Sophie Streeter, Loyola Academy’s director of special events. She adds, “Loyola Academy annually awards $3.8 million in tuition assistance to 30 percent of our students. We do this to maintain a vibrant and diverse student body, and provide a Jesuit college preparatory experience for all qualified students, regardless of their ability to pay for one.”

The Patrick Dealer Group’s contribution of a two-year lease on the BMW 320i to be raffled off, will go toward the nearly $1.2 million generated for education in one single night at Loyola’s Ramble. Raffle tickets can be purchased through May 7th at www.goramblers.org/rambleraffle.
