

Brenntag North America Clears Bar Set by American Petroleum Institute for Diesel Exhaust Fluid

Brenntag, global market leader in chemical distribution, is a worldwide leading distributor of Diesel Exhaust Fluid (DEF). Brenntag North America recently satisfied all American Petroleum Institute (API) Certification requirements and achieved a license renewal for 2016.

Reading, PA (PRWEB) June 06, 2016 -- Brenntag, global market leader in chemical distribution, is a worldwide leading distributor of Diesel Exhaust Fluid \(DEF\). Brenntag North America recently satisfied all American Petroleum Institute \(API\) Certification requirements and achieved a license renewal for 2016.

Each of the Brenntag DEF products, including 2.5 gallon jugs, 55 gallon drums, 330 gallon totes, mini-bulk and bulk quantities, are API Certified. Brenntag strives to maintain these stringent quality standards by working only with manufacturers who perform consistent testing, and by keeping close relations with API management to further develop improvements to processes that benefit the industry. The company has already begun working with an API taskforce to establish clearly defined requirements for 2017.

Brenntag North America urges all industry members to look for the API logo on Diesel Exhaust Fluid packaged products or verify the API Certification status of their supplier prior to making a purchase.
