

World Patent Marketing Success Group Introduces The Electronic Car Umbrella, An Automobile Invention That Protects Cars From The Elements

World Patent Marketing Reviews A New Automobile Invention. Will Electronic Car Umbrella Be the Next World Patent Marketing Low Cost Success Story?

Miami, FL (PRWEB) June 24, 2016 -- World Patent Marketing, an integrated manufacturer and engineer of patented products, announces the Electronic Car Umbrella, an automobile invention designed to provide a portable and efficient car shade for motorists.

"The Global Auto Parts & Accessories industry makes $2 trillion a year," says Scott Cooper, CEO and Creative Director of World Patent Marketing. "Sales of automobiles have accelerated. Both mature and developing markets have demonstrated increased demand for vehicles."

"Cars that are constantly parked under the sun all day long or under multiple outdoor weather conditions for that matter know how damaging to the vehicle it can be," says Jerry Shapiro, Director of Manufacturing and World Patent Marketing Inventions. "The Electronic Car Umbrella is an automobile invention which will provide added protection without having to deal with difficult assembly tasks."

The Electronic Car Umbrella is an automobile invention designed to provide a portable and automatic shade for a vehicle. Built with durable materials, this invention comprises of a cover, multiple hydraulic columns, multiple magnetic ropes, reel, box, a processor and a power source. A lot of motorists who live in large cities would simply park their vehicles out in the open. What the Electronic Car Umbrella does is provide vehicles with a portable shade which can be set up anywhere at any given time. And because of this, vehicles are protected against the damages caused by being constantly exposed to the outdoor elements.

"Vehicles will keep looking and functioning as it should thanks to the Electronic Car Umbrella," says inventor Othman A. "This automobile invention is easy to store inside a vehicle when not in use and can be conveniently opened when needed. People without permanent parking space can now provide added protection to their vehicles anywhere and any time."

Henry McCall, a car owner from New York, has this to say about the Electronic Car Umbrella: "When I just had my car re-painted, I was worried that the color would fade quickly because I always parked my car just outside my apartment. But with the Electronic Car Umbrella, I provide my car with added protection against constant exposure to the sun. Now, I know the paint job of my vehicle will last longer."

The Electronic Car Umbrella is an automobile invention perfect for vehicle owners who do not have their own covered parking spaces.
