Windshield Repair Clear Choice For Saving Green

Alexandria, Virginia, October 11, 2002 - Windshield repair is rapidly evolving as a green-friendly technique - both financially and environmentally. Many consumers are discovering that their cracked and "dinged" windshields can be repaired for a fraction of the cost of replacement. And repair is preventing a significant number of windshields, which are not recyclable, from being tossed into landfills.

"We're seeing that more and more consumers are learning about windshield repair and are choosing to take advantage of it," said Mike Burstein, President of Dominion Windshield Repair, Inc. in Alexandria. "Our business has grown substantially as a result."

Windshield repair is a come-to-the-customer service, in which resin is injected into a ding or crack, filling and sealing the damage and restoring the glass to its original strength. Repairing cracks and dings prevents the damage from spreading and shattering the windshield.

"Consumers are discovering that windshield repair costs only about 25 percent of the price of replacement and the great majority of insurance companies reimburse the entire cost of repair, regardless of the customer's deductible," said Burstein. "Clearly, windshield repair makes a lot of sense, both from a financial and convenience standpoint."

"By choosing repair over replacement, customers are also doing something positive for the environment," Burstein said. "Each time a windshield is replaced, it adds to the trash going into the nation's landfills, because the only thing that can be done with an old windshield is throw it away."

Repair offers another important benefit, as well - safety. Repairing an original windshield, rather than removing it and replacing it with a new one, maintains the soundness of the factory seal, and thus the vehicle's structural integrity.
