

HOGS GO GOURMET AT STURGIS THIS YEAR

James Page Brewing selected to provide fine beers for 700,000 Sturgis Attendess

(PRWEB) August 4, 2003 -- Minneapolis, MN (PRWEB) August, 2003 " When the 700,000 Harley enthusiasts descend on Sturgis this week, they won't have to leave their gourmet tastes at home. This year, Sturgis attendees will enjoy James Page Beer along with beer from five other craft breweries all on display next to an exhibit of classic Harley-Davidson motorcycles.

James Page CEO, David Anderson couldn't be more thrilled, " Both Harleys and James Page beer come from a long history of men and women who see life as an adventure and are always ready for the next journey. It's a unique common bond that I think the folks at Sturgis understand better than anyone."

Along with James Page, the other craft breweries contributing to the gourmet atmosphere at this year's rally are: Big Sky Brewing of Montana, Boulevard Brewing of Kansas City, O'Dell Brewing of Colorado and Summit Brewing, also of Minnesota.

About James Page

Over the first six months of 2003, James Page Brewing sales have increased over 31%, and they show no sign of slowing down. The company ownership is shared by 1,000 community-owners. All of us share the same values: excellence in work and family along with fun, balance and, play. James Page donates 2.5% of profits to Minnesota charities. But even when there wasn't a profit, we still supported causes in our community. James Page: World Class Beer, Craft Brewed, Community Owned.
