

Street Toyota Donates Canned Food to Food Bank

After the success of the canned food drive, Street Toyota employees will celebrate on Monday, Jan. 9. They will be treated to a lunch and be allowed to wear jeans and their favorite college football team colors on Monday.

Amarillo, Texas (PRWEB) January 05, 2012 -- Street Toyota ended their Canned Food Drive this month and will be donating the food to the Amarillo High Plains Food Bank. To celebrate the success of the food drive employees of Street Toyota will be treated to a pizza party on Monday, January 9, 2012.

The canned food drive began in December and quickly employees and guests of Street Toyota brought food to be placed in the bins located around the facility.

“Everyone came together for a common cause and it was such a rewarding feeling of giving back to the community,” Randi Hudson, Social Media Manager, said. “I am excited about the pizza party since we get to celebrate by wearing our favorite college football team colors and jeans.”

The Amarillo High Plains Food Bank picked up its two bins from Street Toyota on Tuesday, January 3. Both bins were placed around the facility so employees could donate food as well as any guests that stopped by the dealership.

“We were excited to see all the food we raised go towards a good cause like the Amarillo High Plains Food Bank,” Hudson said.

Street Toyota in Amarillo, Texas was established in 1982. A new 58,000 square foot facility on 9 acres is now open at 45th and Sony.
