World Patent Marketing Reviews A New Automotive Accessory Invention. Will Sked Start Be the Next World Patent Marketing Low Cost Success Story?

Miami, FL (PRWEB) October 02, 2016 -- World Patent Marketing, a vertically integrated manufacturer and engineer of patented products, introduces Sked Start, an automotive accessory invention that helps people start their cars.

“The automobile accessory industry is worth $216 billion,” says Scott Cooper, CEO and Creative Director of World Patent Marketing. “Due to advancing technologies, customers are always looking for the most advanced devices, which is a big source of revenue for this industry.”

“One of the worst things about living in cold weather is that warming up a car can be very difficult. Cars have a hard time starting and when people finally manage to get inside, they’re freezing cold,” says Jerry Shapiro, Director of Manufacturing and World Patent Marketing Inventions. “This automotive accessory invention was created to bypass these issues with a timer for the car.”

Sked Start is an automotive accessory invention that helps people warm up their cars prior to getting inside. A cold car is very uncomfortable to get inside of and the cold can even cause problems for the engine, preventing it from turning on. This invention aims to get rid of those problems for people living in cold areas. Sked Start is an automatic timer that can be set with a smartphone that turns on the car at a specified time. This allows the user to make sure their car is warm and ready to go whenever they’re about to drive it. The car can also be turned on and off at regular intervals to prevent the engine and the battery from getting too cold. This all helps the user ensure that their car is both comfortable and functional at all times.

“Comfort and convenience are both yours - with the new technological, scheduled start time entry Sked Start program,” says inventor Wanda B. “No stress watching a clock for the appropriate start time or wondering if your vehicle will receive the auto start signal from your fob (any longer). Your vehicle will be comfortably ready for you...set it, forget it, and it's simply at the power of your fingertips!”

Sked Start is an automotive accessory invention that allows people to start their vehicles with a timer before they even enter the car. This will allow the vehicles time to get warmed up and help them avoid cold temperatures.
