

Connect any audio device to your car stereo.... REALLY!

The Mind Factory INC reveals new products to help people get more use from their portable MP3 and CD players.

OTTAWA,CANADA (PRWEB) September 29, 2003 - The Mind Factory INC has been a long time developer, manufacturer, and distributor of consumer electronic products and is best known for being the first company to market with a retail MP3 player based on a hard drive for song storage.

In keeping with its market placement TMF INC went looking for new avenues of products for the new compressed digital market arena. In its quest it uncovered a whole line of wonderfully designed small FM transmitters, these transmitters plug into your headphone jack and broadcast your music onto the FM stereo in your car.

Richard Sloan of The Mind Factory says, "Thats right you now have your very own small radio station broadcasting in full stereo sound, you can not tell the difference between your personal station and the large radio broadcasters, they are that good. Now you IPOD is a radio station DJ! Use them on the road or at home."

The full line of small FM transmitters are available now online at <http://www.myfmstation.com> and start from $49 USD.
