MoveNetwork.com is quickly becoming a big name for those who deal with anything moving and they are now offering truck rental information on their website.

(PRWEB) January 02, 2014 -- MoveNetwork.com is quickly making a name for themselves. After launching their new quote finder tool, they continue to drive visitors to their site with their brand new page featuring moving trucks. According to their CEO, visitors can expect this pattern of new, useful moving tools to become a constant fixture of MoveNetwork.com.

“We were founded with one goal in mind – making the moving process less stressful. We do that in a wide variety of ways. For instance, we provide moving quote comparisons to visitors so that they can receive a moving quote at absolutely no cost. There are no strings attached. Either they like a quote and choose to hire that moving company, or they are free to find a moving company somewhere else. We saw how well that worked and decided we needed to extend that service to moving trucks as well. Basically, we offer a wide variety of moving trucks – from your basic minivan size to a giant truck that can move the entire contents of a 2,000 square foot home. So far, visitors have been extremely excited about this new page and we keep hearing how it is making their move a whole lot simpler. That is all we really want to do, so we are very happy with the moving trucks page's success,” stated the CEO of MoveNetwork.

So, how does the new page work? It features a wide variety of moving trucks, from big to small, that are available for to reserve for the day of a move.
