The attorney will be promoting the firm's new social media addition by working with the best social media marketers in the country. The Orange County lawyers want local residents to know how important it is to speak with an experienced attorney if someone has been arrested. The attorneys continue their online presence by offering no cost consultations, and legal defense information on the firm's blog and new social media pages. The law firm works with the top SEO professional in the United States to promote no cost consultations online, and the firm believes this will attract more local residents looking for legal representation. In most DUI cases, the firm's clients will not need to appear in court. The attorneys will appear in court for the defendant, then the lawyers set a face to face meeting with the attorney to discuss the facts, and how to prepare for the best possible defense for the case. Everyone knows that social marketing is very helpful in getting ones name out across the internet. The attorneys over at Chris Koch and Associates have built hundreds of social media pages and have connected them to their main website in hopes to capture some new traffic. The firm is already well-known for providing affordable legal representation, and has an excellent reputation among the criminal courts. The new pages list basic information about the firm and the best way to contact one of the lawyers for a consultation. The penalties for a DUI conviction can be expensive and harsh. Many counties will try to throw the defendant in jail for DUI cases, and impose very expensive fines. The DMV (department of Motor Vehicles) will strive to take away driving privileges of the arrested for extended periods of time. These driver's license suspensions range for 4 months to 4 years, sometimes they will try to take away the individual's license permanently.
