Used 2003 Cadillac CTS manual transmission is now part of the online discounts in the GM inventory available at the Got Transmissions company. These GM, Gertrag, Aisin and Tremtec builds are now sold for reduced prices.

Atlanta, GA (PRWEB) January 01, 2014 -- The luxury division of the General Motors company includes the production of Cadillac and other vehicles in the U.S. market. Transmission replacements for this brand of vehicles are now added online through the Got Transmissions company. New GM discounts are now added to the used 2003 Cadillac CTS manual transmission inventory now supplied online.

The builds that are currently featured on the company website are mixtures of original General Motors gearboxes and outsourced units that are used inside the CTS. The builds from Gertrag, Aisin and Tremtec are part of the 5-speed automatic and 6-speed manual units that are currently for sale at a lower price structure online.

The luxury CTS vehicle series is one of the brands now featured in the transmission inventory from the GotTransmissions.com company. Upgrades to the complete GM warehouse inventory has been underway since the first part of this year. Both the automatic and manual editions listed online in GM builds have received equal increases in stock for buyers to benefit.

"Many vehicle owners depend on automotive dealerships to find replacement luxury transmissions although the prices are often higher compared to certified preowned units," said a source from the GotTransmissions.com company.

The different sources of gearbox distributors used to acquire the current inventory promoted on the Got Transmissions website have contributed to the increase in visitor traffic to the company website this year. The larger inventory mixed with the incentives for purchase are adding to the record numbers of shipments processed by this company.

"The Cadillac, Buick and Chevrolet luxury transmissions found inside of our online inventory are fixed with a three-year warranty after purchase as one incentive we've prepared for buyers," the source confirmed.

The GotTransmissions.com company inventory available for purchase online is searchable by using the parts database installed for open use this year. This system is now capable of presenting any quote price as well as shipping policies in place to educate buyers researching the company inventory listed online.
