These constantly variable transmission units are new technologies that some vehicle manufacturers are adding to production schedules for transmissions in North America. This technology is currently used by Ford Motor Company as well as some foreign automakers to upgrade the shifting technologies for automobiles.

The remanufactured transmissions that are included in the Ford inventory now featured online are each paired with the Powertrain Pros company warranty plans. The CVT transmissions are rebuilt to extend a level of 24 months of unlimited mileage coverage to each buyer in the United States.

"All sale pricing for each transmission unit in stock is delivered with the use of the automated price system installed for 2014 online," the source confirmed.

New automated tools are now placed on the company website to generate easier access to pricing and inventory information to interested buyers online. Users of the company website who are not utilizing these tools can still rely upon the customer order number at 1-888-292-8807 in the USA.
