

24-7 Van Lines Announces Budgetary Consultation Service for Moving Clients

Leading provider of residential, commercial and cross-country moving services offers budgetary consultation service to clients looking to move across country on a budget.

San Jose, California (PRWEB) January 07, 2014 -- 24-7 Van Lines (<http://www.247vanlines.com>), an experienced provider of residential and cross-country moving services is now offering a budgetary consultation service to any client looking to move across country on a budget.

The new budgetary consultation service advises clients based on specific moving criteria helping them to achieve their budgetary goals. 24-7 Van Lines factors in such details like: distance; time; state or local taxes; shipment weight; cost of packaging materials.

Designed to work with even the tightest of budgets, representatives from 24-7 Van Lines will even supply clients with written, easy to follow guidelines and steps they can take to dramatically cut down on moving expenses.

“The economics of moving are not always clear-cut because a simple moving quote doesn’t offer the client enough information they need to successful budget for a move. Covering all the bases on our end is simply not enough and we wish to educate our clients on all the various ways in which they can cut down on moving expenses,” says a spokesperson for 24-7 Van Lines.

Up until now, few resources were made available to clients looking to move across country on a budget. Consultations services factor in realistic costs associated with road trips, including the number of MPG (miles per gallon) you can expect from your vehicle, how much fuel you will need and the cost of lodging.

“At times, clients will come to us with a price in mind, without realizing they can cut down on costs by opting not to ship or tow their vehicle. What we do is offer them a few scenarios and/or possibilities they can then use to evaluate the true cost associated with a cross-country move,” adds the spokesperson.

Budgetary consolation, as offered by 24-7 Van Lines, educates the client on creative ways to budget for a move. The true cost of a move is something that many overlook simply because they are not made aware of the various ways to save. Clients looking to move across country on a budget are encouraged to contact the representatives at 24-7 Van Lines Budgetary Services for a free consultation.
