Auto Parts Merchants Save Time and Money with Shipping Integration

AUSTIN, Texas (PRWEB) November 29, 2017 -- Today ShipStation, the web's leading e-commerce shipping solution, announced an integration with RevolutionParts, the top e-commerce platform for car dealerships and auto parts retailers.

Perfect for high-volume shippers, RevolutionParts' integration with ShipStation makes it simple for parts departments to manage and ship hundreds of orders a month. Customers receive detailed analytics and reporting of shipping history, real-time order updates, and an automated system that takes the time, hassle and unnecessary expense out of fulfilling parts and accessories orders. RevolutionParts customers can now automate email notifications and print shipping and return labels (batch printing of 500 or more) with ease thanks to ShipStation.

"RevolutionParts is our first partner exclusively in the factory auto parts industry," notes ShipStation's Vice President of Marketing Robert Gilbreath. "We are delighted to help their customers ship more efficiently as we continue our mission to provide the best shipping solution no matter where or what someone sells. This partnership is particularly special to me, given my early history selling auto parts online and dealing with the challenges that RevolutionParts now solves."

ShipStation will also provide RevolutionParts customers with a free USPS shipping account (a savings of $15.99 per month), which offers deeply discounted USPS rates. Furthermore, RevolutionParts customers will have access to ShipStation's mobile app, free on iOS and Android devices, allowing sellers to manage and view their ShipStation accounts on their phones and on the go.

"We're excited about our partnership with ShipStation," stated Ibrahim Mesbah, CEO and co-founder of RevolutionParts. "Customer experience has always been our company's top priority and this integration makes it even easier for our higher-volume dealerships to process more orders in less time."
