

Humboldt Storage and Moving Announces New Distribution Logistics Service

Humboldt Storage and Moving, greater Boston's largest United Van Lines agent located in Canton, Mass. recently announced their new distribution logistics service.

CANTON, MA (PRWEB) May 14, 2004 -- Humboldt Storage and Moving, greater Boston's largest United Van Lines agent located in Canton, Mass. recently announced their new distribution logistics service. Offering distribution logistics service in a regional distribution format, Humboldt Storage and Moving caters to retail clients throughout New England area. Furniture and antique stores, as well as other retailers who require trucking service in order to provide delivery of large merchandise to customers can now take advantage of Humboldt's distribution services.

It is not uncommon for a retailer to outsource their delivery service to a trusted provider. A small, fine furniture store would not require a full-scale distribution division in-house because their volume is probably not as high as a discount furniture mega-store, noted DArcy Goldman, President of Humboldt Storage and Moving.

Humboldt provides professional, customized packing on all deliveries, utilizing special packing material, including bubble wrap, furniture pads, recycled boxes and custom designed crates for large items.
