(PRWEB) June 17, 2004 -- HybridBoard.com (<http://www.hybridboard.com/>) is proud to announce Hybrid automobile forums to allow Hybrid owners and enthusiasts world-wide to post announcements, questions, and simply converse. The forum is available free of charge to the Hybrid community.

“HybridBoard.com forum is an excellent resource for Hybrid enthusiasts and owners to learn more about gas saving Hybrids and share their experiences with them” said Greg Gurath, founder and admin of HybridBoard.com.

Hybrid automobiles combine an internal combustion engine with a battery and electric motor. This combustion offers the extended range and rapid refueling of a conventional vehicle, while reducing energy requirements and emissions of today’s vehicles. The practical benefits include improved fuel economy and lower emissions. More than 43,000 Hybrid automobiles were sold in 2003.

HybridForum.com is a free, friendly Hybrid community founded May 27, 2004.
