

Groove Motorsports Continues Driver Development Plans

Sean Murphy to Run at Martinsville in Late Model Race and NASCAR Craftsman Truck Race

Marlton, NJ ( PRWEB ) September 28, 2004 -Â□ Groove Motorsports outlined its testing schedule for driver Sean Murphy in preparation for the NASCAR Craftsman Truck Series Race at Martinsville. Team owner Roger Brown said, $\hat{A} \square$ We just missed the race in Indianapolis, and we will not let that happen in Martinsville $\hat{A} \square$ .
Sean Murphy tried to make his Craftsman Truck Series debut in Mansfield, Ohio but qualifying was cancelled due to rain. $\hat{A} \Box$ The team was ready for both Mansfield and Indy. $\hat{A} \Box$ stated Sean Murphy. $\hat{A} \Box$ We just missed qualifying at IRP, and unfortunately rain cancelled qualifying at Mansfield.Â□ Groove Motorsports is a joint venture between TNR Racing, owned by Roger Brown and Todd Via, and New Edventures owned by Edward DuCoin.
$\hat{A}\Box I$ manage the marketing and business side of the team while Roger and Todd handle the racing side. We partnered together because we trust each other and have common goalsÂ□. Groove plans to continue driver development and is attracting sponsors for 2005. $\hat{A} \square$ We plan on running a 20-race schedule in 2005. $\hat{A} \square$ said Todd Via. He added, $\hat{A} \square$ We have some very long term goals. Unlike most teams that talk a good game, we would rather take a slow, steady approach and prove ourselves on the track. This is what will get us to the Nextel Cup level in few years.Â□ Sean Murphy will test several days in the Craftsman Truck. In addition, he will race in the BaileyÂ□s 300 Late Model event at the Martinsville Speedway on October 10. Murphy added, Â□Racing against the best late model drivers in the country on the same track as the Craftsman Truck Series will be a great test and preparation for the truck race. $\hat{A}\Box$
