(PRWEB) November 1, 2004 -- Most car owners do not realize or understand that the vehicle that they rely on for work, pleasure or other activities is equipped with a High Security device known as a transponder system. The users of these vehicles may have been told at delivery of the vehicle being equipped with the high security system and that extra keys could be made only at the dealers, this may only be accurate in only about ten percent of the transponder equipped cars.

The transponder system works alongside the vehicle computer and authorizes such things as a fuel pump, and the starter. Visit the online transponder key store and order a spare today. We even tell you the requirements and how to program your spares. Do not wait until you are driving around with your only key.
