

RideOnTime.com Names Weinstein Spira & Company as Merger and Acquisitions Advisor

RideOnTime.com, who leads the integration of the ground transportation industry into the online travel market, has appointed Sid Shaver of Houston-based Weinstein Spira & Company as Merger and Acquisitions Advisor.

Denver, CO (PRWEB) January 18, 2005 -- RideOnTime.com, who leads the integration of the ground transportation industry into the online travel market, has appointed Sid Shaver of Houston-based Weinstein Spira & Company as Merger and Acquisitions Advisor.

Mr. Shaver leads the Weinstein Spira & Company Merger and Acquisition services for industrial companies where he works with closely held businesses, consulting with them on growth and wealth preservation strategies such as acquiring, selling, and merging with other companies. In addition, Mr. Shaver is certified in Mergers & Acquisitions--a designation held by a small number of financial professionals in the United States. Mr. Shaver holds a BBA degree in Accounting from the University of Houston, and offers the expertise and credibility of numerous professional designations and holds Series 7, 24 and 66 Licenses, he is also a member of the AICPA, TSCPA and AMAA.

“Sid is abundantly qualified to act as our M&A advisor. Since the beginning of 2005 we have been approached by two independent entities who wished to engage with us in acquisition talks, we very quickly realized that we needed a specialist to handle these discussions,” says Nicholas Chavez, CEO of RideOnTime.com. “We are very privileged to have Sid and the aggregate knowledge of Weinstein Spira to assist us in negotiations that play a large part in the direction our emerging company travels.”
