

Bedliner.com Dealers Realizing Tremendous Profits Above All Other Spray in Bedliners.

Bedliner.com offers a superior spray on bedliner enabling its dealers to out earn their competitors. The training experience at their corporate training facility gives their dealers immediate success.

(PRWEB) January 23, 2005 -- Bedliner.com offers a unique experience for their new dealers. No other bedliner company gives the hands on training that a new dealer receives with this company. Most new dealers not only leave the facility as an "expert applicator" they are also experts at graphics application for your bedliner as well as improved marketers for their entire product line.

The startup costs are extremely affordable yet the value added benefit of training at the corporate facility makes it automatic for dealer success. Simmons Industries, Inc., the parent company and founder of bedliner.com offers a spray in bedliner second to none. Their high gloss colors, that maintain their richness and shine above all other liners, is one reason their dealers succeed easily. Also their unique technology for permanent, durable graphics "sprayed-in" to the bed, give any truck owner the complete personal expression.

It is easy to succeed when you can compete with a superior product that comes from a company with superior support. The truck aftermarket industry continues to boom and spray on bedliners are the most popular accessory. Whether you are an existing accessory store owner looking for added benefits or someone just starting out in this business, it is hard to go wrong with bedliner.com. After all, what better web domain to be associated with if you were wanting to be known as a bedliner installer. Check them out, you won't be sorry.
