

The Advertising Van of Florida

Out of the box advertising is a new trend hitting the United States, from people advertising on their foreheads and body parts to advertising on their personal vehicles. The advertising van of Florida offers advertising on a white van to be driven up and down A1A and Interstate 95 from Jupiter to Miami Beach. The van will be driven at least 8hrs per day, 5 days a week. And will also be used for personal use to give the advertiser more exposure.

West Palm Beach, FL (PRWEB) February 10, 2005 -- Out of the box advertising is a new trend hitting the United States, from people advertising on their foreheads and body parts to advertising on their personal vehicles. The advertising van of Florida offers advertising on a white van to be driven up and down A1A and Interstate 95 from Jupiter to Miami Beach. The van will be driven at least 8hrs per day, 5 days a week. And will also be used for personal use to give the advertiser more exposure.

The response has been overwhelming from advertisers; they are always looking to get their product or service noticed in a unique fashion. Advertisers have to always come up with something better, faster and different to get the word out.

Susan Hoffman, President of The Advertising Van of Florida, has an extensive background in sales and marketing and is excited to get into this advertising trend.
