Harbor City, CA (PRWEB) February 18, 2005 -- If you ask any public safety officer about the danger of unrestrained objects like groceries, sporting goods and even handbags in a car, they will stress the importance of properly securing those loose items. In a collision, your car may stop suddenly but anything not held in place continues to move forward at an alarming force. For example, in a 30 mph crash a seemingly harmless can of soup or bottle of mineral water can develop the force of a 20 pound projectile that can cause serious and possibly lethal injuries.

"Like the good habit of wearing a seat belt every time you drive, a responsible driver should also protect the welfare of his or her passengers by securing even the smallest of loose items in their car or SUV with a properly fit cargo net." says David Honl, owner of The Cargo Net Store, a California based cargo net specialist. Honl says that although most of their customers initially purchase a cargo net to keep rolling groceries or sporting goods from becoming an annoyance, more and more are realizing the safety benefit. "We frequently hear from parents that want to keep their children safe from the errant groceries in the back of their SUV."

The company's cargo nets are hand-made of the finest materials, and at a lower price than most car dealerships. Honl states that without sacrificing quality, their nets are often priced up to 70% lower than most car dealerships.
