Raleigh, NC (PRWEB) February 23, 2005 -- Sepi Asefnia, President of SEPI Engineering Group, has announced that the firm as been named Employer of the Year by the North Carolina Chapter of the Women's Transportation Seminar (WTS), a national organization dedicated to advancing women in the transportation industry. This award recognizes outstanding women entrepreneurs and leaders within the organization, as well as throughout the transportation industry.

“It is an honor to be chosen by my peers as Employer of the Year,” said Asefnia. “There are so many talented and successful companies in North Carolina's transportation industry, it is truly humbling to receive this recognition.”

About Women's Transportation Seminar:

Founded in 1977, the Women's Transportation Seminar was created through the efforts of 40 women involved in transportation in the Washington, DC, area who recognized that a mechanism was needed to enhance professional and personal advancement and to develop industry and government recognition of the increasing involvement of women in the field of transportation. After nearly 25 years of growth and development, WTS is now a national organization of more than 3,400 transportation professionals - both women and men. Over 35 chapters have developed over the years, serving the local needs of WTS members across the country. For more information, please call 202-496-4340 or visit the website at www.wtsnational.org.
