

Trucklinks.com Now Features News

A search directory with refined search capabilities exclusive to the trucking industry now provides access to the latest industry news.

Lisbon, IA (PRWEB) February 19, 2005 -- Fast becoming the preferred search directory trucking industry wide, Trucklinks.com now provides links to news, press releases, editorial as well as event announcements from sources throughout trucking.

The news page is human edited and stories are updated at least daily. Arranged by topic interest, users of the directory have the opportunity to see the news items most appealing to them and then go directly to that source.

"Trucklinks.com is committed to providing users an information edge in performing the day-to-day operations of the trucking industry," said Trucklinks President Mike Thayer. "The addition of news to our industry exclusive search listings adds another element to the vast range of information already available on the site."

Delivering defined, industry unique answers to search inquiries in a fast and easy to use format, users have made Trucklinks.com their preferred choice when it comes to trucking.
