

New Automotive Industry Forum - Dedicated to Industry Professionals

A new forum created especially for automotive industry executives and professionals has been launched. This new forum is expected to connect members of the automotive industry for in-depth discussion and interactivity. Forum topics cover all industry topics, including Aftermarket, Dealers, Energy/Environmental, Fleet/Rental, Funding, Global, Manufacturers, Marketing, Motorsports, Remarketing, Technology, and Vehicle & Driver Safety.

(PRWEB) March 30, 2005 -- AutoIndustryForum.com has recently launched a forum created for professionals and executives in the Automotive Industry. Consumer-based forums are common; however, this new forum is intended to connect automotive industry professionals together for in-depth discussion and interactivity. Mark Chastek, President of AutoIndustryForum.com, believes this is the first forum entirely dedicated to industry professionals.

"Collaboration and cooperation is extremely beneficial to any industry or business, and I personally believe there is a need for a forum dedicated to members of the automotive community," said Mr. Chastek. "Through the power of the Internet, the ability to connect with professionals from any corner of the world is now a reality. In my opinion, this will provide a great opportunity for industry professionals to make valuable connections and share information."

As a member of the Automotive Industry, you are encouraged to visit <http://www.autoindustryforum.com> and participate in professional discussions with other members of the industry.

###

Contact Information*Mark Chastek

AutoIndustryForum.com

<http://www.autoindustryforum.com>

310-701-1471

Online Web 2.0 VersionYou can read the online version of this press release here.