

Save At The Pump: Have Hart Concierge Run Errands For You

Save money on gas by using a concierge service to run your errands and more.

(PRWEB) April 14, 2005 -- With the price of gas continually rising, an extra benefit of using a concierge service is saving money on your gas bill. AAA data shows that 70 percent of the miles people drive are for family errands.

Hart Concierge will efficiently take care of your errands such as banking, post office, gift buying and will even wait for the repair person. In addition, they have an exclusive business referral service to help you locate an accountant, a builder and more. With just one call, your errands are completed and you can find a window washer all at the same time.

“As a former corporate employee for the past 25 years, I realize the value of time,” says Ellen Hartzell owner of Hart Concierge. “While working full time in the corporate world, there was never enough time to accomplish everything I wanted to and still have some relaxing time for myself. By starting my own concierge business, I want to help others get back more of their free time.”

Hart Concierge serves couples who both work, corporations and other busy people. By taking care of those time consuming errands, you will have more time for your family and yourself.
