

The Strangest thing I've ever Carried in my Car is

A recent survey highlights some of the oddest things people have carried in their cars.

(PRWEB) June 12, 2005 -- It's often said that our cars are a reflection of our homes. We eat in them, get from A to B in them and sometimes people even live in them. We fill them with food wrappers, kids' toys, sport equipment, blankets, spare tyres and if the results of a recent survey by www.hootcarinsurance.co.uk are anything to go by, a lot more besides.

They have compiled a list of the strangest objects that people admitted to carrying. We reckon the stories behind some of this stuff are unprintable or verging on illegal!

- A shopping trolley stolen for a charity race to carry a man with one leg
- A stolen bar stool (how did they sneak out of the pub with this?)
- A sheep and a chicken
- A spare engine (hopefully not intended for the car it was being driven in)
- A bale of hay, maybe for the sheep and chicken?
- A kidney being transported to hospital for transplant
- A world war II bomb found in a field (not advisable)
- Eight people in a mini (we obviously don't condone fitting as many people as possible into a car!)
- A guitar once owned by Elvis (apparently!)
- A certain celebrity footballer who needed a lift to a training session after their Bentley broke down near London

And finally if you thought those weren't quite wacky enough one person admitted that she once had to transport five fully inflated four foot tall Homer Simpson's in the back of her car. One can only wonder where these were headed

Hoot Car Insurance gives young people one of the cheapest quotes on the market quickly without the hassle associated with filling in lengthy forms. To save up to 60% on your premiums visit our website at www.hootcarinsurance.co.uk or call us on 0808 195 9954.

Editorial notes: Hoot Car Insurance is an online car insurance provider which offers massive savings on existing premiums and gives the customer the ease of buying online.

By Sophie Evans at www.hootcarinsurance.co.uk
Online car insurance provider exclusively for young people.

Site: www.hootcarinsurance.co.uk

###

Contact Information

Sophie Evans

HOOT CAR INSURANCE

<http://www.hootcarinsurance.co.uk>

0808 195 9954

Online Web 2.0 Version

You can read the online version of this press release here.