

Replica USA State License Plates For Up To 75 Years Back Now Available

If you have been searching for, wishing you could find or thinking about replacing your old state license plates, but couldn't because DMV disposes of leftover blanks - you can now purchase replicas of any state plate for up to 75 years in the past, made from durable, lightweight - and LEGAL - fiberglass with raised letters for only $25.95 each.

(PRWEB) June 18, 2005 -- It had to happen sooner or later. Too long now car collectors and car buffs have suffered from not being able to crown their glory with period license plates. Millions have lost their front plate and still others want a special plate that describes their pride and joy.

The problem is that when a State comes out with a new issue, that's it for the old one. All the blanks that they have are tossed out and it's tough luck trying to get a replacement.

Well, it isn't a problem any more. Legal, high-quality replica plates - with accurately detailed artwork including the original fonts used - are now available for the first time at <http://www.CR8APL8.com>. A Hollywood TV and movie prop master for 25 years has been making them for the public for the last five years.

These are standard size plates with raised letters ... and they look just like the originals. Actually from a foot and a half away you can't tell the difference. So busy is <http://www.CR8APL8.com> that they now run three shifts, 24/7 to keep up with the demand.

DMVs across the nation now refer crying car enthusiasts with damaged or missing plates to the Internet as the only alternative to their plight. In the five years they have been in business, CR8APL8.com has helped tens of thousands with their problem. In all 50 States, metal, tin, and aluminum license plates are illegal to manufacture, so in cooperation with the DMVs and laws, they've come up with a lightweight fiberglass enforced plastic that won't crack from the winter cold or melt in the summer heat, which gets the task done nicely. They use a UV silkscreen ink, so no paint at all is used on these replica plates. This ink not only puts an unqualified luster on the plate and letters but the license plate actually gets brighter in definition as the sun gets to it - which means that your replica plate from CR8APL8.com has a longer life than the original plates do!

So now, no matter whether you want a Starsky and Hutch 537 0NN, a Mayberry RFD JL-327 or a 1964 Illinois plate, The Mad Greek at CR8APL8.com can make one for you. The site shows about 200 examples and these guys are so cool that after you order one they send you a jpg image for verification that you can save to your computer and use for stationary ... or whatever. Price? A phenomenally low $25.95 and you can't beat that for something that doesn't exist anywhere else. The site is an excellent demonstration of just how much you can accomplish in HTML - complete with a clever automotive theme including selected audio snippets.
