

New Web Site Cartips4u.com Shows People How To Get The Car They Want At Government Auto Auctions

Cartips4u.com new step-by-step video tutorials show you how to locate cars at government auto auctions.

New York, NY (PRWEB) July 1, 2005 -- The usual approach to purchasing a car is to identify a reliable dealer who will stand behind their cars. The second approach is to ask friends and coworkers whom they bought cars from and ask a ton of questions. The third approach is to purchase a car from an individual selling their car.

All three methods work and have their pros and cons. Yet, there is one method that thousands of people overlook everyday...getting your vehicle from government auto auctions.

The truth is you can find quality vehicles being sold in your backyard.

There seems to be confusion regarding the different types of auto auctions people hear about.

There are two types of auctions:

- 1)Government Auto Auctions
- 2)Private Auto Auctions

Government Auto Auctions Â□ These auctions are used to sell items either owned by the government or seized by the government. Usually, the cars owned by the government are well maintained and are very reliable. The items confiscated may not be as reliable as the previous owner may not have kept up with the maintenance.

Private Auto Auctions Â□ These are usually the auctions advertised in your local area by private car dealers who purchase vehicles at some government auto auctions, and city auctions throughout the country, then resell them to you. The difference between government auto auctions is the cars on private auto auctions level tend to have high miles, may need minor and sometimes extensive repairs.

"Your goal, when purchasing at government auto auctions, is to get the best and most reliable car you can get without having to spend too much money, if any, to get it road-ready,Â□ says Shawn Nelson, MSA the creator of the Government Auto Auctions Videos (<http://carauctions.cartips4u.com>).

Here are four things people must keep in mind when shopping for an automobile at government auto auctions:

- 1)Set the price you desire to spend on your car and do not go over that - People tend to get carried away at government auto auctions and spend more than they should.
- 2)Make sure to read the terms and conditions of the sale carefully - You will not believe how many people overlook the little details that cost them the car of their dreams. A deposit is usually required.
- 3)Make sure you have the money to purchase a car at government auctions - For example, you may need to pay off the balance within 72- hours (some auctions provide more time). If you do not come up with the money you forfeit your winning bid.

4)Bring a mechanic with you to check out the car - While you will not be able to drive the cars, you can usually start them. A good mechanic will be able to point some things out to you.

Most important, take your time. There are hundreds of government auto auctions taking place every month. Do your research, find your dream car and proceed to get it at local government auto auctions.

Shawn Nelson, MSA is a car enthusiast who provides car buying tips for the average person looking to make an informed decision. To learn more visit <http://carauctions.cartips4u.com>

#

Contact Information

Shawn Nelson, MSA

<http://carauctions.cartips4u.com>

718-408-9170

Online Web 2.0 Version

You can read the online version of this press release here.