

Pinstriping Legend Steve Kafka Answers Beginners' Questions

Registered users of Eastwood's ShopTalk Forum, at <http://forum.eastwoodco.com>, can submit questions in the new "Kafka's Korner" section. Question topics can include pinstriping techniques, designs, or specific inquiries regarding any of Kafka's own products.

POTTSTOWN, PA (PRWEB) December 3, 2005 -- The Eastwood Company, a leading provider of restoration and customization tools and supplies, today announced a partnership with pinstriping legend Steve Kafka which will allow users to get answers to their pinstriping questions directly from Kafka.

For many years, Steve Kafka has been on the cutting edge of modern design, as evidenced in both his beautiful, original pinstriping technique and his custom graphics. When asked what he hopes users will gain from this new website feature, Kafka stated: "I will, to the best of my ability, share my knowledge and answer questions, recommend techniques and products that will hopefully enhance your pinstriping endeavors, or at least give a different perspective; a 'Kafkaesque view', if you will."

Registered users of Eastwood's ShopTalk Forum, at <http://forum.eastwoodco.com>, can submit questions in the new "Kafka's Korner" section. Question topics can include pinstriping techniques, designs, or specific inquiries regarding any of Kafka's own products. The product line encompasses Kafka's complete line of pinstriping brushes, his Pinstriping Practice System, and the "Welcome to My World" instructional DVD. All of these products can be found on the Eastwood website.

"The Eastwood ShopTalk Forum was created to help enthusiasts learn more about their passions," said Mike Stamm, CEO of The Eastwood Company. "We know there is an incredible interest in custom art, and this new forum is a great way for Steve to share his talent and to remove some of the mystique that surrounds the art of pinstriping. We're very excited about the opportunity to work with Steve on this project."
