(PRWEB) December 11, 2005 -- Fans of NASCAR, Indy Racing League, Formula 1, Champ Car Racing and MotoCross will find valuable information available from the new online forum at www.RaceFanCentral.com. Race Fan Central offers news, information on merchandise and an opportunity for fans to share their opinions and connect with one another.

Launched with the true fan in mind, the site features news updates on the major racing leagues and general motor sport news. In addition, race teams, sponsors and anyone with motor sports news is encouraged to submit their releases to be posted on the site. Fans of Dale Earnhardt, Jr., and Jeff Gordon will agree on one thing, RaceFanCentral.com takes the checkered flag.

Visitors to the site will also find information on the latest racing merchandise available from trusted sources such as Amazon, the NASCAR store, and Speed Gear. In addition, information on tickets and driver appearances are offered.

Finally, RaceFanCentral.com gives the fans a voice. The site features a blog and comment section. The blog is updated regularly and offers additional opinions and news on what's happening in motor sports. Recent topics of conversation include NASCAR's new television contract and the NASCAR Hall of Fame. Racing fans and visitors to the site are encouraged to leave their comments and share their thoughts on the sport and their favorite drivers.

For more information and to participate in the forum, race fans can visit www.racefancentral.com on the Web.
