Launched in October is the site for the new SCV8 Championship. Designed and developed by MSO.net, the web site will give motorsport enthusiasts all the information they require relating to this new racing series.

(PRWEB) November 6, 2003 -- This month saw the launch of a web site by MSO.net for the new SCV8 Supercar Championship. The aim of this exciting new championship is to offer motorsport enthusiasts spectacular racing featuring instantly recognisable saloon cars. With two races per event, there will be no shortage of thrills given the cars' rear wheel drive configuration and high performance V8 engine units. Close and competitive racing is assured due to the controlled mechanical package - all the racing models will have similar on-track performance.

The championship series was the brainchild of four times BTCC champion Andy Rouse and is now in the final stages of preparation thanks to a consortium of experienced motorsport professionals supported by leading industry organisations.

Some of the site's features worth visiting will be a calendar giving details of each of the ten events; a gallery; driver profiles and news giving up-to-date race information.
