

Used LS Engine Discounted for U.S. Sales by Engine Retailer Online

Used LS engine is now discounted for U.S. sales processed at the Got Engines company. These V8 block GM engines are under new pricing for this year when shipped inside the United States.

Chicago, IL (PRWEB) January 03, 2014 -- The performance motors produced by GM for the North American market can now be purchased at the Got Engines company. This company is announcing its acquisition and discount price structure for used LS engine inventory online at <http://www.gotengines.com/blog/chevy-engines/ls1-engine>. These LS motors include multiple builds that are designed for Corvette engine buyers.

These acquired engines are featured as LS1, LS2, LS4, LS9 and LS7. These motors were produced by General Motors for high performance vehicles starting in the 1997 year. The arrival of these previously owned condition motors at the Got Engines company is expected to showcase the complete line of LS engines available.

The V8 inventory of engines that are currently in production in the U.S. are traditionally sold direct from dealerships at full retail price. The second hand engines market has grown in size based on the demand for affordably priced replacements. The GotEngines.com GM inventory of used engines now featuring the LS builds is creating new online resources to purchase units.

"The Corvette is one of the most respected vehicles in the General Motors family and is also the most difficult to find replacement engines for that feature low mileage," said one source at the GotEngines.com company.

The used performance engines inventory now promoted to buyers online is one new strategy going forward in 2014 to change up the available second hand motors inventory. The Got Engines company recently contracted with a new source of distribution agencies in the U.S. to supply harder to locate engine builds from the top three North American automakers.

"The General Motors, Ford Motor Company and Chrysler performance engines currently available in our inventory are featured due to our independent resources for acquisitions," the source included.

The warranty programs that are provided with all previously owned Got Engines company inventory were updated at the close of 2013 to enhance the parts protection available. The new plans for this year feature up to 36 months of parts protection after the purchase period. More information about these warranties or available performance motors is now posted on the company website.

About GotEngines.com

The GotEngines.com company sells replacement automobile engines that are in used condition in the U.S. This company provides discounted prices for all inventory that consumers research on the company website. The inventory is acquired using top resources in the North American market. The GotEngines.com company is one of few providing discounts, free shipping, limited warranty policies and other solutions for replacement motor buyers online. The buyer support services provided by this company includes toll-free telephone number services and online solutions for consumers.

Contact Information

Thomas Jones

GotEngines.com

<http://www.gotengines.com>

+1 (866) 320-1065 Ext: 3

Online Web 2.0 Version

You can read the online version of this press release here.