

Powerstroke Transmission in Used Condition Now Sold to Buyers at Preowned Transmissions Company Online

Powerstroke transmission is now sold in used condition at the PreownedTransmissions.com company. This unit is available in 4R100 and E4OD builds to diesel vehicle parts buyers in the USA.

Pittsburgh, PA (PRWEB) January 06, 2014 -- The 7.3 Powerstroke diesel motor introduced by the Ford Motor Company in 1997 was one of the first diesel builds offered for late model vehicles in the U.S. The Preowned Transmissions company has now acquired used condition Powerstroke transmission units for sale online at <http://preownedtransmissions.com/powerstroke-transmission>.

These assemblies are sold as used units and are hand selected for low counts of mileage. The 4R100 and E40D gearboxes are two of the most common builds that are featured with diesel engines in the Ford family. These standard and heavy-duty options are now in stock and listed with a sale price for buyers.

All U.S. shipments that are prepared for the Powerstroke diesel transmissions receive the removal of freight prices for the 2014 year. This change is part of the new solutions that are offered to used transmission buyers online. All free freight shipments are included in each requested price quote online or offline.

"The Powerstroke diesel motors Ford produced continue to remain in demand on the second hand market and locating transmissions is a necessity for replacement buyers of engines," said a source from the PreownedTransmissions.com company.

Aside from the diesel transmissions inventory currently sold from the Ford lineup, editions that are designed to fit inside of Chevrolet and GMC vehicles were recently included for sale online. The manual and automatically controlled GM gearboxes that are now for sale along with Ford builds offer gasoline and diesel variations for buyers.

"Our truck and van division gearbox inventory marketed online in 2014 includes larger gasoline and diesel engine compatibility to please parts buyers who are without local distributors," the source confirmed.

The Preowned Transmissions company is currently planning to increase the size of its inventory through this year by working closer with new partners. All future price changes and inventory acquisitions are expected to be announced on the company homepage and through the use of media partners in the USA.
