RV industry makes way for “the most eco-friendly motor home in the universe.”

Toms River, NJ (PRWEB) January 06, 2014 -- Motor homes may be known for being notorious gas guzzlers, but Roadtrek has introduced a new RV enhancing the importance of the three R's in Rving: Reduce, Reuse, Recycle. The B+ class motor home is made entirely from recycled materials and operates free of fossil fuels, calling it “the most eco-friendly motor home in the universe.”

According to Roadtrek, the E-trek is powered by a 3.0 liter Mercedes diesel engine that is one hundred percent bio-diesel capable. When parked, the diesel generates 3.5KW of power and 5.5KW of power when in motion. The term “going green” is an understatement for the motor home, which also has a mounted roof of 245 watt solar panel array that continuously charges a bank of 8 AGM batteries and a 5000 watt power inverter.
