

Football Season Is Here – It's Prime Time for RV Tailgating

Lazydays RV sponsors “Ultimate RV Tailgating Experience” sweepstakes for football fans

TAMPA, FL (PRWEB) September 02, 2016 -- Fans who have been gearing up for football season like so many Americans each year have undoubtedly hosted and attended a lot of tailgating parties each year. In fact, tailgating has become quite the rising lifestyle trend in recent years – some even consider it a sporting event of its own that goes way beyond supporting one’s favorite team. For many, tailgating is a tradition that spans across multiple generations. Tailgating is such a phenomenon in both the NFL and Collegiate leagues that National Tailgating Day (September 3, 2016) has been designated as the first Saturday in September each year. And it’s competitive – there’s even a National Collegiate Tailgating Championship (NCTC) organization, “Where Fans Meet to Compete” that sponsors an annual contest for the best tailgating crew.

Fans from all over the country and even abroad, have been known to drive, fly and travel across many state lines just to make it to their favorite team games. From outfitting an SUV, truck or other vehicle of choice, to preparing those must-have favorite foods, or multi-course menus that would impress any culinary enthusiast, even to the design and set up of their “tailgate scape” – family, friends and fans alike can enjoy this treasured sport with a healthy dose of team spirit.

One trend in particular – the RV tailgating experience, continues to grow in popularity and scale. Not just a means of transport anymore, RVs have evolved from road trips and camping trips into unique travel and dwelling adventures – and now the options have grown even more. According to the Recreation Vehicle and Industry Association’s (RVIA) recent survey of RV manufacturers, “The RV market continued to race ahead through the first half of 2016 with total RV wholesale shipments reaching 226,286 units, an 11.7% increase over this same period last year.”

Ideal for exploring the country and serving as mobile event venues, RVs offer the comfort and convenience of feeling at home, even at locations such as a favorite home game. With the amenities RVs offer today, fans can entertain family and friends with complete comfort at any destination they choose. RVs provide everything tailgaters need with interior and exterior amenities, including large screen TVs, full kitchens and immense storage areas, as well as outdoor patios, and temperature controlled bedroom and bathroom accommodations. There’s no need to search for a hotel, food or beverages, restrooms, Wi-Fi, etc. – and the best part is, it lets tailgaters be right in the heart of some of the biggest football social events of the season.

No one understands tailgating and how to create an epic tailgating experience better than Lazydays RV, The RV Authority and world’s largest RV dealership of its kind.
