

Local Toyota Dealership Offers A Safer Vehicle Servicing Option for Customers

Baierl Toyota encourages customers to use its pick-up and drop-off service

MARS, Pa. (PRWEB) November 20, 2020 -- As the pandemic continues to affect everyone in the country and around the world, more businesses are offering safer shopping options. Restaurants have started delivery and online pick-up orders while grocery stores have started curbside pick-up. Baierl Toyota in Mars, Pa., has joined its fellow businesses by offering a pick-up and drop-off service. This service allows customers to continue giving their car the service that it needs while still staying safe.

The pick-up and drop-off service is a fairly simple process. If the client is within the service area, the Baierl Toyota service team will drive out to their house and take their vehicle back to the service department. Once the vehicle has been transported to the service department, the highly trained technicians will complete the maintenance needed. The team will attend to major services like engine work and transmission repairs, as well as routine maintenance services like oil changes, tire rotations and more.

The team at Baierl Toyota also prides themselves at working to keep employees, customers and vehicles safe from COVID-19. The staff is practicing social distancing, proper hand-washing technique and sanitation methods as advised by the CDC. If a team member is sick or is exposed to the virus, they are quarantined at home.

If any residents from Mars or the surrounding areas would like to learn more about this service, they can find more information at baierltoyota.com. They can also direct their questions to the service team by calling 724-453-4103. The service department is open Monday through Friday from 7:30 a.m. to 6 p.m. and on Saturday from 8 a.m. to 4 p.m. Baierl Toyota is located at 19045 Perry Hwy in Mars, Pa.
